Brooks Hays and Sheffield Enter Governor's Race

Former Assistant Attorney General Youngest Campaigner

MAKES STATEMENT

Phillips County Judge Also Attacks Administration "Machine"

The gubernatorial field in the August primary election was raised to five men, over the week end, when Brooks Hays, Little Rock and Russellville attorney, and John S. Sheffield, of Helena, county judge of Phillips county, entered the campaign.

Hays, youngest man in the race, and who ran strongly in 1928, was assistant attorney general under Applegate. Since retirement from state office he has been active in civic work in Little Rock. He is regarded as very strong among University of Arkansas alumni, who organized Hays-for-Governor clubs in 1928. In that year Hays finished second to Harvey Parnell, who was seeking re-election.

John C. Sheffield, another candidate whose announcement, like Hays', has been expected for the last month, is Judge Sheffield, the fighting campaigner from Helena. Sheffield was an outstanding figure in the turmoil following the cleanup of political conditions in Phillips county a few years ago, and battled the State Highway Department in its attempt to collect license fees on publicly-owned autos. He is president of the County Judges Association of Arkansas.

Others who have already announced their candidacies are: Harvey Parnell, seeking re-election; Lee Canort, lieutenant-governor running for governor; and Thornberry Gray of Batesville, representative in the latest legislature.

Hays made the following statement in state newspapers yesterday.

"I am glad to have this opportunity to make known to the people of Arkansas my plans for the approaching Democratic primary. Inquiring friends in every section of this great state have asked for a public declaration of my intentions regarding the campaign for governor, and I am convinced that I should no longer delay making known my attitude. I have given to an analysis of the present political problems of Arkansas careful and mature deliberation. I have resisted the impulse to act hastily, realizing the necessity for a searching study of my relationship to the present deplorable political situation. No man has a right to treat lightly the appeal of those who call upon him to accept the leadership of a worthy movement, and it has been my purpose in the last few months to determine the extent of the feeling that my candidacy would afford the opportunity for an awakened Democracy to repudiate machine control of our government. I am convinced that this sentiment is widespread and I hereby announce my candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor on August 12. This decision has not been easily made. I am not unconscious of the power of the present political machine—the strongest and most selfish that has fastened its tentacles upon our beloved state since the terrifying days of Reconstruction. That its power extends to the remotest recesses of our political structure is shown by the supreme efforts to prevent the entrance into the campaign of any candidate genuinely opposed to the methods of these professional politicians."

Davis Rose From Steel Mill To Become National Figure

Laborious Steps Starts Davis' Brilliant Career

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(AP)—James J. Davis may soon be writing another chapter in a life story that might well be titled "The Rise of a Fugitive Boy."

He seeks the Republican nomination for the senate from Pennsylvania. Davis ends ten years as secretary of labor.

At the same time he will enter, perhaps as interesting a phase of his political career as at any time since it began when he was chosen city clerk of Elwood, Ind.

In the decade since President Harding gave him the labor portfolio, the one-time immigrant boy has become a national figure, widely known.

His voice and name became known to millions when he broke into heavy song during a radio address. Fan mail poured in.

Grid Star to Pay Dad's Ransom

Gordon Bristow, below, former Oklahoma University football star, has gone to Tepic, Mex., by airplane to obtain the release of his father, J. A. Bristow, above, 60, Texas oil operator, held for ransom by bandits. Young Bristow planned to pay the 10,000-pesos ransom demanded.

Seven Persons Burned to Death

Are Trapped in Two Story Frame Home When Fire Breaks Out

NEW YORK, March 24.—(AP)—Seven persons, six members of one family, were burned to death as they slept, and an eighth escaped from death when fire enveloped their home in Bay Side Queen today.

The family was asleep on the second story of a frame house, and were trapped by the fire, which breaking out in the furnace, spread so quickly that the whole house was aflame before fire apparatus arrived to extinguish the blaze.

The fire was caused from an over heated stove.

Dog's Note Worth $500

St. Louis Judge Rules

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 24.—A trained bird dog's trained nose is worth $500 to the dog's master, to say nothing of what the proboscis is worth to the dog, a Circuit Court jury decided here recently. Judgment for that amount was awarded a Negro, against a fine arms collector who last April shot the pedigreed pointer. The wound according to expert testimony destroyed the dog's sense of smell.

Question of Late Sheriff's Death to Be Disputed

Coroner's Jury Reported Wounds "Probably" Self-Inflicted

IS FOUND NEAR HOME

Suicide Theory to be Questioned in Suit Before Judge Bush

LEWISVILLE, March 24.—(AP)—Whether J. W. Miller, late sheriff of Lafayette county and nemesis of moonshiners, was a suicide or was slain, is a question to be disputed in circuit court here today.

Apparently settled last September when a coroner's jury reported Miller's wounds "probably" self-inflicted, the affair will be reopened and the suicide theory questioned in a civil suit before Circuit Judge Dexter Bush.

The suit, filed last November, was brought against an insurance company for collection of a $10,000 policy carried by Miller. It attracted little attention at the time.

When the case comes to trial Monday, however, L. W. Miller, brother of the dead man and administrator of the estate, has announced he will introduce contentions that Miller was murdered.

With this announcement came the first hint that the late sheriff might have met with foul play.

Attorneys have announced they will base their murder theory contentions upon the bitter feeling in which the late Lafayette county officer was held by the lawless element of the county, based on Miller's record as a peace officer.

This, plus the contention he had no reason for suicide, will be advanced as the motive.

Position of the plaintiff in the suit on the policy on grounds it was nullified by suicide, must prove the official actually killed himself.

Elaboration of the murder theory has been withheld by attorneys, although it has been admitted nothing concerning Miller's death was suitable at the moment for presentation to the prosecuting attorney or a grand jury.

Miller was found dead in an out building near his home the morning of September 3, fully dressed and two bullet wounds in his head. His pistol lay at his side; two cartridges discharged. One bullet had caused a minor scalp wound but the second had penetrated his brain.

L. A. McClelland, Jr., testified before the coroner's jury that he had rushed immediately to the out building upon hearing the two shots, saying he believed he could have intercepted anyone there or leaving there at the time. Relatives also testified the sheriff had arisen shortly before the shots were fired.

The coroner's investigation also brought out the fact that Miller had been injured in an automobile accident August 9. Since that time, relatives testified, he had been mentally irresponsible. Court officials commented upon his "dazed" condition in circuit court shortly before his death.

An audit of his books and accounts revealed everything in order, although it was revealed to the coroner Miller had been worried by financial troubles for some time.

Railroad Official Shot by Tramps

When Arrested Later, Six Men Deny Knowledge of Shooting

COVINGTON, Ky., March 24.—(AP)—Clarence Kirrick, 56, superintendent of detectors of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, was shot to death today in what officers described the affair with fighting with tramp liquor carriers.

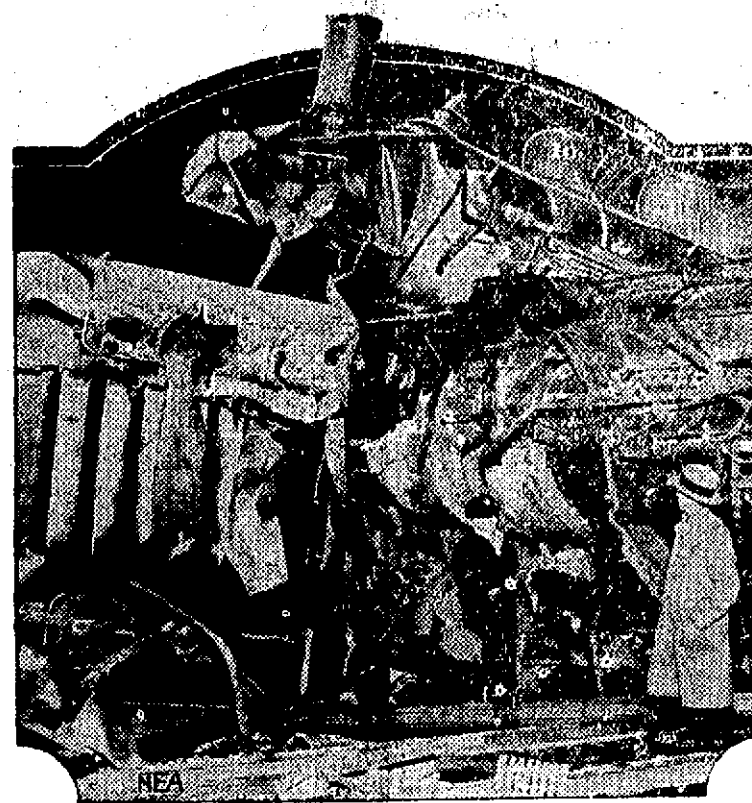

Police here received word that six men were later arrested at Livingston, Ky., and when questioned, the prisoners denied any knowledge of the shooting.

Gurdon is Making Plans for Air Circus

GURDON, Ark., March 24.—Three contracts have already been made with aviators by the Legion post here for exhibitions soon in the flying circus which is being arranged by the committee.

The date of this circus will be announced later, and invitations will be sent out to people all over the county. It is expected that this will be the biggest day for visitors that Gurdon has witnessed for years past.

Ready for the Junk Pile Now

This tangled mass of junk was all that was left of two locomotives after a unique accident on the Northwestern railroad near Arlington, Ill. A drain pipe, rolling from a tractor onto the right-of-way, derailed the Badger State Limited and a local train bore down on the wreck. An engineer was killed and 20 trainmen and passengers injured.

Bulletins

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(AP)—The senate rejected a motion today to return the tariff bill to a committee to limit the rate increase on farm products.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(AP)—Acquittal of Edward L. Doheny, multimillionaire oil operator, charged with bribery, last Saturday was rescinded in the senate today by senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, as a "rank travesty on justice."

TEXARKANA, March 24.—(AP)—Fred Wilson, 46 night watchman for an industrial plant here was killed last night when struck by lightning during a severe electrical storm. Wilson failed to check in at midnight, and a search revealed his body in the lumber yard.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(AP)—Attorney General Mitchell was invited by the senate judiciary committee today to come before it next week, and give his views on a proposal by the senate investigation of prohibition enforcement. He was invited once before but was unable to accept on the first request.

MIAMI BEACH, March 24.—(AP)—David P. Thompson, director of the inland company here, died early today.

April 22 Set for Postal Deadline

Last Day for Applications for Postmastership Here

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(AP)—Applications for the postmastership in Hope, Arkansas, will close here April 22, the Civil Service Commission announced today.

The postmastership examination will be held in Hope at a date yet to be determined, but today's Associated Press dispatch setting the deadline for applications, means that the examination will be held at an early date.

Candidates expected to line for the position are: J. A. Davis, present postmaster, and W. M. Brummett, also of Hope.

Former Hope Students Speakers at Banquet

Two former Hope students were included among speakers at the fourteenth annual Harlan Society banquet held Saturday evening at Hendrix-Henderson College. Conway, Albert Graves, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Graves of this city, delivered one of the principal addresses, and Miss Jeanette Witt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theo. P. Witt, extended greetings from the Hypatia Society, of which she is president.

Mr. Graves is president of the senior class at Hendrix and a former president of the Harlans. Miss Witt is a junior.

Still Captured In Sunday Raid

Revenue Men Assist Local Officers; Much Mash is Found

Revenue officers Jess Quillen, John Reed, Capt. Rodden, assisted by Deputy sheriffs Jim Bearden and Riley Lowallen, Constable Frank Turner and Alex Purdie raided a whiskey still near Dooley's ferry, 20 miles southwest of Hope, Sunday afternoon. The still was a 120 gallon capacity affair. About 1000 gallons of mash was found but no whiskey was discovered. No one was seen near the still during the raid, but from all indications the operators were preparing to make a run.

The outfit was spotted in a thicket, and officers experienced much difficulty in reaching it.

Prisoners Foiled by Jailer's Wife

Brick Punched Out of Jail Wall Strikes Tin Can

TEXARKANA, March 24.—(AP)—Because of a brick punched out of the wall of the Miller county jail struck a tin can and awakened Mrs. Everett Mills, wife of the county jailer, and prevented a wholesale jail delivery early today.

Alarmed by the noise, Mrs. Mills awakened her husband, and after calling Sheriff Elmer McGee, Mills entered into the jail surprising nine negro prisoners who were preparing to lower a ladder fastened by blankets which extended through the hole which was punched in the wall.

Three prisoners sawed bars in their cell, and delivered six others from their cell on the third floor. With the bars the nine men proceeded tearing out a hole.

Guest Arrested; Events Deepened in Murder Mystery

Tidy Davis Repudiates Alleged Confession Surrounding Slaying

REMAINS MYSTERY

Officers Been "Running Around in Circle" Says Report

LITTLE ROCK, March 24.—(AP)—Police here today announced that Porky Guest, aged about 22, had been arrested at Biscoe, between here and Memphis, and will be returned to Morrilton for questioning in connection with the reported slaying of Samuel T. Hollowell, Little Rock salesman, missing since a week ago today.

Chief of detectives James A. Pitcock in announcing the arrest of Guest, said he was informed from Morrilton that Tidy Davis, 16, had repudiated the alleged confession naming Guest as the slayer of Hollowell.

Davis and Chas. Chalk, 19 were arrested at Morrilton last Saturday. Davis had been quoted that "Guest shot Hollowell while the three were on a trip to buy some liquor, and the three weighted the body with an iron object and threw it into the Arkansas river. The body has not been recovered."

MORRILTON, March 24.—(AP)—Rapid occurring events deepened the mystery surrounding the "strange disappearance a week ago of Samuel T. Hollowell, Little Rock salesman. Tidy Davis, 16, repudiated an alleged confession in which he is quoted by officers as saying Porky Guest shot Hollowell to death in the Opelie community near here while on a quest for liquor.

Guest was arrested at Biscoe and is being returned here for questioning. Carl Chalk, 19, a third youth in custody in connection with the crime of the supposed slayer of the salesman. "The man may have never been slain, sheriff Gordon, said today. Pressed for an answer, he said the event which had occurred led him to this belief. He would not add to the assertion. Search for the body has been discontinued after dragging the Arkansas river for three days and is being held in a place where the body was supposed to have been weighted and thrown into the water. Sheriff Gordon and his deputies said that Davis' repudiated confession of the slaying was induced by a friend, Doc Wood, who promised him $200 to make the statement, and of which half of it was to go to Guest.

Sheriff Gordon admitted the officers had been "rounding around in a circle" and are apparently no nearer a solution than when the salesman's car was found with a bullet hole in the floor. Davis first told officers that Guest shot Hollowell and that the three youths threw the body into the Arkansas river.

Supreme Court Upholds Decision

In Denying Negroes Right to Participate in Pulaski Primaries

LITTLE ROCK, March 24.—(AP)—Rules of the Democratic party in Arkansas, denying negroes the right to participate in state primaries were upheld by the State Supreme court here today. An appeal was taken to the high court by Pulaski county, exclusive from the primaries in 1923, was a violation of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendment of the constitution of the United States.

In denying the appeal the Supreme Court declared there was no state law prescribing qualified electors a write to vote on account of color and party rule which the state was unconcerned with the jurisdiction of Arkansas courts.

The decision today was in the case of J. M. Robinson et al versus L. C. Helleman, member of the Democratic Central committee for the Pulaski Chancery court.

Patmos Man Injured in Automobile Mishap

While crossing Third street in front of Waddle Brother's store, S. M. Gordon, of Patmos, was struck by an automobile Saturday driven by Jack Fritchett, local youth. He was knocked to the pavement and received cuts about the head and bruises on the arms and legs.

He was rushed to a local hospital, where his injuries were treated and then was able to return to his home.

Old Fort Jesup, in the western part of Louisiana, has been made a park.

Air Dry Views In House Hearing

They were important pro-dry law witnesses before the House Judiciary Committee in Washington. Horace D. Tatt, above, head master of the Tatt School at Watertown, Conn., testified that his brother, William Howard Tatt, was a staunch supporter of prohibition in his later years, Josephus Daniels, below, war-time Secretary of the Navy, said he could see "no compromise" on prohibition, the only alternative being the return of the saloon.

Patrolman Dies After Accident

One Held Pending Action as Result of Officer's Death

LITTLE ROCK, March 24.—(AP)—Robert A. Johnson, motor cycle patrolman, died in a hospital here early today as the result of injuries he received last night when struck by an automobile driven by R. C. Creiglow.

Creiglow is being held in custody pending action as the result of the officer's death. Two other men and three girls were in the automobile when the accident occurred.

NOTICE TO MASONS

Emergency Meal Is Acid Test of Housewife, Says Mrs. Ihrig

Star's Expert Cook Describes Familiar Scene in Average Household

"The test of a housewife, as of a business man, lies in her capacity to meet an emergency," says Mrs. Leona Rusk Ihrig in one of her famous cooking lectures, which will be delivered at the Saenger theatre during The Star's Cooking School, March 31-April 4.

"The oft quoted couplet 'Tis easy enough to be pleasant when life flows along like a song' applies particularly to the housewife with her multitudinous of interests," says Mrs. Ihrig.

"The real test of the housewife appears when her husband calls in from the office, 30 minutes before meal time, to inform her that he is bringing guests to dinner, whom he wishes to impress with his wife's cooking. It is not characteristic of the masculine mind to remember that on that

City Wide Survey Shows Keen Need 5 New Divisions

Garland Hi School, Built in 1906, Now in Bad Repair

IS OVER-CROWDED

New Building Would Provide Home Economic Manual Training

The possibility of a new senior high school for Hope appeared today with the completion of a city-wide survey by Dr. Howard Dawson, research expert of the State Department of Education.

Preliminary results of Dr. Dawson's survey were made known today, and special recommendations will be published the middle of this week, the receipt from Little Rock.

The report of the state department will brand the present high school building as "inadequate and in need of a complete rebuild." Garland Senior High school, building was constructed in 1906. It houses 200 students at present, but was outgrown by the city years ago. The building is not only much too small, but is settled badly, and walls and foundations are cracked, so that its replacement has been seriously considered for several years.

City school authorities are 10 years behind present revenues. The budget being barely enough to cover the teaching payroll and interest and principal retirement on bonds due the banks. It is believed by authorities, however, that a new building can be financed.

Provision would be made in the new building for several times the present seating capacity, and at least five new departments. These would be: Science laboratory, library, gymnasium, home economics department and manual training rooms.

Woman Identifies Negro Assailant

Spirited Out of Town When Crowd Gathered Around Jail

DE VALLS BLUFF, March 24.—(AP)—Sheriff J. J. Holmes announced today that Andy Johnson, negro, had been identified by a white married woman near Biscoe as the one who attacked her in her home last Saturday.

The negro with another was taken before her and at once she recognized Johnson as her assailant. Johnson, 31, is being held in another county for safe keeping as the result of high feeling existing here.

Sheriff Holmes spirited Johnson out of town when a crowd gathered around the jail yesterday. He is held at Des Arc where he will be tried within a few days.

A wide spread search was instituted after the woman reported that a negro had entered her kitchen while her husband was away from home, dragged her through the house, and fled when he became frightened at a noise outside.

Prize Awards Open To Local Youths

100 Cash Prizes Offered in State for Best Stories

Boys and girls of this community may enter the search now being made to find the oldest users of America's pioneer fertilizer, according to plans of the Nitrate Centenary Contest, which has been recently announced as a feature of the 100-year history of nitrate of soda in this country. Exactly 100 cash prizes, with $50 as the first award, will be given boys and girls in this State who write the best stories about farmers who have used nitrate of soda, or Chilean nitrate, as it is now called, for at least 50 years. It is pointed out, however, that if two or more stories are written about the same farmer, only the best will be considered for the awards. An additional prize of $50 will be awarded for the best story written in the entire South.

The farmer in each State, who, according to the stories, has the longest and best record with the fertilizer, will receive a special award, consisting of one dollar for every year he has used nitrate of soda and an extra dollar for every year over 25 years. In addition the farmer in the entire South who has used the fertilizer for the longest period of time will be given a $50 award.

The project is sponsored by the Chilean Nitrate of Soda Educational Bureau, in recognition of the century of nitrate of soda, which is the oldest of the commercial fertilizers now used on American farms. Details of the contest have been sent to county agents, vocational teachers, and high school teachers in all parts of the South.

McCaskill Personals

Miss Lulu Wardlow returned Tuesday from Prescott where she had spent the week end visiting.

Elmer Stanley of Little Rock returned home Tuesday after spending a few days at the home of his sister Mrs. Ashmore.

Sanders Moses of the McCaskill Drug Company and G. Moore, Superintendent of the McCaskill public schools returned home Sunday after spending the week end with friends at the Little Rock and Conway. They were accompanied home by Miss Margaret McElroy of Little Rock who was a guest of Mr. Moore for the week.

Mrs. B. Ashmore of the Friendship school faculty entertained her school at a picnic last Saturday.

Mrs. Tip Wardlow and daughter, Mona Bell, of Minden, Louisiana, are visiting at the home of her aunt, Mrs. L. D. Eley.

Wilton Curtis is employed at the Arcadia packing shed during the radish season.

The Literary society of the McCaskill schools met with a number of visitors last Friday afternoon, and a very interesting program was held.

The McCaskill ball club are now reorganizing, and a good fast team is assured under the leadership of Sidney Stone. Many games have already been scheduled.

SCHOOL NOTES

Due to bad weather and roads, the champion speller of the Blevins school was unable to participate in the spelling contest held at Hope last Saturday, sponsored by the Hope Star. Juanita Mullens was chosen from the many that qualified.

School now opens at 7:45 a. m. and is dismissed at 12:45 p. m. to let the students help harvest the big radish crop.

Misses Eva Junkin, Ruby Adams, Colie Tanner, Clyde Lewis and Harold Branch were shopping in Prescott Saturday morning.

There is a vast change made in the list of names of the high five in all of the grades from last week. We are glad to note the change as it shows more interest in being taken in the contest. Below are the names of the high five for the grades for the week ending March 21: First grade: Harold Stephens, Jack White, Evelyn Chambliss, Ozella Leverette and Ralph Harris. Second grade: Geraldine Stone, Martha Cramer, Arlis Brooks and Emma Louise Mouser. Second B grade: J. W. Foster, Coy Zumwalt, John Nolen, Floyd Leverette and Lloyd Leverette. Third grade: Gertrude Irvin, Ena Fern Stephens, Ernestine Houser, T. S. Bailey and Agnes Brown. Fourth grade: Billy Brown, Arnette White, Christine Brooks, Louise Cummings and James Brown. Fifth grade: Mary Louise Bailey, Clive Stephens, Audrey Ferrell, Beatrice Smith and Quentin Derryberry. Sixth grade: Ed Bossenberger, Herman Smith, C. E. Bruce, Ruby Johnson and Irene Thomas. Seventh grade: Danless Houser, Anna Gean Brown, Winnie Mae Lee, Cecil Tate and Violet Cross.

Department cards were issued last week, and the students are urged to have their cards signed by their parents and return them to their respective teachers so they may turn them in to the judges and prizes to be awarded next week.

The 4th clubs in both the boys and girls, will meet at the school next Monday March 31, at noon. This plan is being worked out by the Superintendent, and the county agent. This meeting is of importance and it is hoped that every member of the club will be present. A similar meeting will be held at the Sweet Home school earlier in the morning.

BELTON NEWS

The honor roll for the past week in the Belton public schools are as follows: Fifth grade: Louise Eley, sixth grade: Willie Rhodes, eighth grade: Irene Pickett and Ruby Curtis; ninth grade: Gladys Webb.

Misses Ruby Curtis and Pearl Dison were the outstanding forward and guard in the basketball team that just finished a very successful season.

School will close for the term on April 18, and the students are planning an elaborate program on that date. Professor Ashmore has accomplished much, and the term is one of the most successful in the history of the school. All of the teachers were elected for the next year, and the primary teacher Mrs. Eaylor was elected but did not accept, and her place will be filled in the next meeting of the directors.

Miss Thelma Dolsen is taking the teachers examination in Nashville this week.

Mrs. K. A. Davis who has been very ill at her home the past two weeks is now on the road to recovery.

The Belton Baptist church has singing service for two hours the first Sunday in each month and everyone in this community are invited to attend.

Hog Prices Favorable

The outlook for hog prices this year is favorable, therefore proper crops should be planted for hog pasture in order to reduce the expense of production. Several hundred thousand dollars worth of pork is shipped into Arkansas every year. Why not supply this home market? It has been stated that we cannot produce pork cheaply enough in Arkansas to compete with those who produce hogs in the corn belt. Several ton-litter demonstrations will be carried in Hempstead county this year in an effort to see how cheaply pork can be produced. Following are some of the people who are entering the ton litter demonstration:

Frank Padgett, Hope; Elmer Calhoun, Fulton, R. 1; Solomon Goodlett, Ozan, R. 1; Mach Smead, Ozan, R. 1; Zan Baileman, Hope, R. 3; Parnell Adams, Patmos, R. 2; Ruffin White, Hope, R. 4; C. J. Welsinger, Hope, R. 2.

Premiums will be paid the three highest scores in the amount of $10 for first, $8 for second, and $7 for third. This prize money is being offered by the Temple Cotton Oil company. In addition those entering will compete for state prizes amounting to more than $400. In order to be eligible for these prizes a portion of the protein supplement fed the hogs must be cottonseed meal. Full instructions may be gotten from County Agent Lynn Smith. Other who reside are urged to enter at once.

Pigs must be farrowed by June 15. Score will be: 50 per cent average weight per pig; 25 per cent, cost per hundred; 25 per cent, net profit. Litter must weigh 1700 pounds at 165 days or 2,000 pounds at 180 days. County agent must certify to date of farrow and number of pigs.

Hempstead's Master Farmer
A committee will select the Master Farmer in Hempstead county as a part of a program put on by the Progressive Farmer.

To date three nominees have been selected as follows:
Elmer Calhoun, Fulton, R. 1
Ed Lee, Prescott, R. 5
Riley Lewallen, Hope, R. 1

It is very probable that one of these three will be nominated for Hempstead county. It is really a significant honor to be so considered. A master farmer must be a man who has made his money on the farm and who has used some of the money to buy and improve a home. The requirements are strong, and most people are eliminate.

Following are a few factors which have eliminated most farmers:
1. Running water in home. (a) bath room, equipped. (b) Sewerage system.
2. Lights, electric or carbide.
3. Must use soil improving methods of farming and make a fair income yearly.
4. Must own home of at least 75 or 80 acres.
A final announcement and write-up of the winner will be made later.

As Fire Swept New Orleans Docks

This spectacular picture shows vividly the onrush of flames and smoke that added another $1,500,000 fire loss to the history of the port of New Orleans. A fire tug is pouring streams of water on the Esplanade avenue wharf. It was the second disastrous waterfront fire within two days at New Orleans.

Schools Close in Nearby Districts

Friendship School Closed Friday; Sweet Home to Close Next Friday

The school term of the Friendship school came to a close last Friday ending by a splendid program on Saturday night, being carried over from Friday night due to bad weather, and roads.

A number of the scholars finished the grades this term and will go to various high schools to complete their high school work.

The Sweet Home district east of Blevins will close next Friday, completing it by an elaborate program to be staged by the scholars and their teachers. The Sweet Home school has had a large enrollment this term, and like the Friendship school many of them after finishing the grade school will go to various places to finish their high school education.

Belton School Staging Contest

Students of the Belton School Taking Subscriptions for Star

The students of the Belton school are staging a contest on subscriptions for the Hope Star in their district. Cash prizes are being awarded, and the money realized will be used in their athletic fund.

Professor Ashmore has charge of the contest, and is a strong believer in newspapers being read by the pupils. A great deal of enthusiasm was had at the meeting, and it is believed the fund will be increased to take care of the bills on basketballs and uniforms.

Two Fatalities In Dye Family

Two Former Blevins Residents Victims the Past Two Months

Arthur Dye and John Dye two former boys of Blevins have met met death in peculiar circumstances the past two months.

Word was received at Blevins January 26 that Arthur Dye, age 24, was a victim of an automobile accident on the Mexican border in Arizona. Arthur and his brother Edgar went over a deep embankment, Arthur was killed instantly and Edgar was taken to the hospital at Nogales, Mexico, where he was treated for two weeks for wounds he received in that accident.

Last Monday word was received from Tucson by Albert Dye a Blevins resident that his brother John had been murdered and left immediately for that point to ascertain the trouble. Word was received at Blevins Friday that John had been strangled and his throat cut by a fiend who was later

Well Known Commission Man Moving Main Office to Prescott

Bert Scott well known produce buyer in south Arkansas will maintain his offices at Prescott starting next week. Mr. Scott states this move is necessary on account of the telegraph and telephone communications. It too will serve his immediate territory, which is truck growers along the Missouri Pacific and the P. & N. W. railways.

Mr. Scott held meetings at various points along the Missouri Pacific this winter encouraging the farmers to raise truck. He is very optimistic for the 1930 season, and thinks this will be a banner year for the truck growers.

captured in Tucson. The supposition is that John was held up, and when he offered resistance he was clubbed and after cutting his throat he was thrown out of his car, and the families near heard the moans, and he was rushed to the hospital where he lived four hours. He was able to tell the sheriff who his assailant was, and after an all day search he was found in a vacant house in another part of town. He was placed in jail at Tucson and is being held without bond, awaiting action of the grand jury.

Mr. Dye is survived by his widow, and one son, his mother, three sisters and two brothers. Burial was made in the Tucson cemetery.

Menus for Family

BY SISTER MARY, N.E.A. Service Writer

THE tang of cured fish often whets the appetites as the mildness of fresh fish fails to do. Professional cooks recognize this and frequently introduce a bit of preserved fish of some sort into their hors d'oeuvres to give zest to the concoction.

Fish may be preserved in several ways: salted, smoked, in oil, and in a weak vinegar solution.

These types of fish should be used more frequently than they are, for they are always available and not expensive. Cod and mackerel are the commonest, but any large fish can be "salted down." Salt fish is delicious but not generally obtainable on the market. Salmon salted in a brine is very good and usually easy to find. Smoked salmon is a particularly delectable variety.

Any smoked fish can be substituted for the salmon in the casserole dish.

Casserole of Smoked Salmon

One and one-half pounds smoked salmon, 4 small onions, 1 cup peas, 1 cup diced carrots, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 4 medium sized potatoes, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-2 cup milk, 1-2 cups dried bread crumbs.

Scald salmon. If very salty, put through two or three waters. Cut in pieces to serve and sprinkle with lemon juice. Melt butter in a shallow pan and add crumbs. Stir until crumbs are well coated with butter. Put fish into a well buttered casserole and sprinkle lightly with crumbs. Add alternate layers of peas, carrots, potatoes cut in thin slices, and onion peel and sliced, and crumbs. Add boiling water to cover and bake slowly for one hour. Uncover and add milk. Continue baking for 20 minutes. Serve from casserole.

Radish Harvest in Full Swing

Late Rain Fall Big Boost to Growers, Fall Prices Paid

The 1930 radish harvest will be its highest peak this week, and the crop will be the largest that has been harvested in this district. Until last Saturday night there had been three cars moved from Blevins, three cars from Dunlap, one car from Deanyville, and one car at McCaskill. These radishes are of the red water-cress variety, and the growers state that they are bringing a fair price. After the radishes are picked, they are unloaded at the vat for washing, but a few minutes until they are packed, iced and placed in refrigerators for cars, and are rolling to the eastern and northern markets.

Along with the big crop of radishes to be harvested this week, there will be cars of turnip and mustard greens. Tomatoes will be the next large crop to be harvested from these points.

master farmer. There are three farmers in the community that are able to qualify, but no definite decision has been made and later in the week a committee of five will call on them that the county agent has interviewed, and select one of the three, and they will compete with other farmers in this district for a cash prize given by the Progressive Farmer.

Our Poultry Column

Edited by Prof. Frederic H. Stoneburn

SOME folks of certain temperament keep poultry as a hobby or relaxation and are not concerned in financial returns. Their profits are of the intangible sort—pleasure, happiness, improved health. But the vast majority of poultrymen are primarily interested in the profits which their birds produce, depending upon their flocks to earn for them all or a part of the family income.

These latter, then, are in the poultry business and they should consider their various problems from a strictly business standpoint. They should keep accurate records of production and production costs, eliminate any unprofitable line of activity and expand such as are profitable.

All this is made possible by accurate knowledge and such knowledge, in turn, is secured from records of the business. In my opinion, the weak spot in most commercial poultry enterprises is the failure to systematically make the detailed records which every real business man knows are essential to any true success.

IN THE poultry business, as in all other manufacturing enterprises, there are two major factors which affect possible profits. The first is production costs—the second, selling prices. If one can reduce his costs or increase his income, he profits accordingly. If he can do both, he will rapidly step-up his profits.

The manufacturer of any commodity knows that production costs are reduced through the adoption of the most efficient method of manufacture. He plans convenient buildings, installs perfect machinery, uses the most suitable raw materials and employs capable labor.

So, too, the business poultryman. His plant is laid out in such a manner as to reduce labor to the lowest point; the buildings are adequate and comfortable; the equipment modern; the birds (or machines) are of the most efficient type for the purpose in view; the feed (raw material) is high in quality and perfectly balanced; and he studies his business and adopts results-insuring methods.

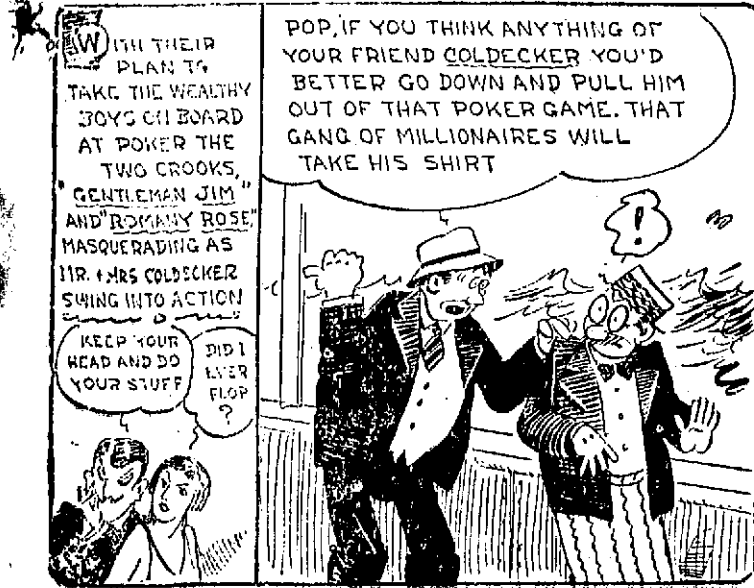

These things cannot, usually, all be done at once. But the constant aim is to steadily improve until the ideal is reached.

EFFICIENCY in production, vital as it is, represents but half the battle. There still remains the selling of the products to advantage. Here, too, the average poultry producer is weak. In the main he sells his output at prices fixed by that mysterious something which we call "the market." In only exceptional cases does he set and receive his own prices. In a broad sense the same applies to most lines of production. The maker of shoes, or socks, or shingles must keep in line with "the market," quality considered, or he cannot sell his products in big volume.

Hence, one way to beat the market is to produce for less; the other is to find outlets for goods at better-than-average prices. That

BEAT the market by producing goods which command a premium or sell during periods of top quotations. Develop a superior flock and sell the eggs to hatchery operators—at a premium. Concentrate on the breeding of layers which lay top-grade eggs—those which command a premium. So manage your flock as to produce big output of eggs during the October to February period—and secure the year's top quotations. (Copyright, International Sugar Feed Co., Memphis.)

Reddie Baseball Nine at Practice

Henderson Teachers to Have Formidable Outfit

ARKADELPHIA, March 24.—The Henderson State Teachers' College baseball team, under the able direction of Coach J. H. Rowland, have been engaged in light baseball practices during the past week as preparatory work for a very intensive season in inter-collegiate circles. Coach Rowland has lined up a team of men whom he intends to build his team, and with the most formidable crews to be found in the state.

The Reddies will be well represented in the pitching department with O. B. Morrow, Eugene Sherman and Earl Darnley carrying the burden. All three of these men are veterans of the game and have had three and four years of collegiate experience in addition to their semi-pro ball. R. D. Hule is slated to hold down the catching job.

In the outfield Williamson, Martwood, supply of veterans also. Johnson and Wilbur are the candidates for the first base position, both are letter men. Summerville is slated for second, with one of the pitchers alternating at short.

In the outfield Williamson, Martwood and one of the pitchers will probably see action with the Rowland crew during the coming season. Coach Rowland is at the present time drawing up a schedule for his nine. He plans to take on some of the semi-pro ball clubs of the state in addition to the regular collegiate schedule that will be engaged upon.

He pitched for Pat Moran's old club in the world's series fifteen years ago. Now he has come back to give the youngsters a hand and, as he remarked to me:

NEW YORK, March 24.—(AP)—There's no question but that these new big league managers were hired to get out and give their clubs a boost in the loop standings.

There is some question, though as to whether some of them can do what they were hired to do. And that is meant as no reflection on the managers.

Only one, Bob Shawkey of the Yankees, apparently has enough material to make a genuine fight for the flag.

The subject of good behavior but his transfer from St. Louis to Philadelphia has seemed to arouse this grand old pitching veteran to a new outlook. Alex, working harder than any rookie in camp, has whipped himself into first-class condition. As he says him-

All but one or two of the other six fresh pilots can make a name for themselves by showing any resemblance of pennant winning strength.

Dan Howley, mainly because of the great display of managerial acumen shown with the St. Louis Browns, is counted upon to make the Reds a first division contender.

Bill Killifer, now chief of Howley's old club, may again keep St. Louis out of the second division. In actual playing strength he should be slightly better equipped than Howley was providing, of course, that Heinie Manush is ready when the season opens.

The pitching situation with the Cardinals is so bad that Gabby Street will have to spring a remarkable punch to keep the Red Birds in the company they have been accustomed to since the spring of 1926.

Donnie Bush has some splendid young players on his White Sox roster and with such veteran dependables as Pitchers Alphonse Thomas and Ted Lyons, Third Baseman Willie Kamm and Catcher Berg may boost the club out of the second division. Even the most optimistic cannot see much hope for Bill McKechnie's

Braves or Heinie Wagner's Red Sox. Good players are so scarce on these tail end clubs that Managers Bill and Heinie can count the season a success by prying their teams out of the cellar.

If they are like most athletic chief-pleased by the current comment on their team's chances.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

by William Braucher

Seven Vets in New Scenery

THE faces will be familiar, but the scenery in which six major leaguers take the field for the opening of the 1930 campaign scarcely a month away, will seem strange.

Deals during the lull between the close of the 1929 season and start of this one perhaps were fewer than in many previous years, but they provided gossip that served to arouse some interest and speculation as to the outcome of the departures. Waivers figured for the most part in the deals, with an outright purchase or two.

Dan Howley, always known as a grafty trader and dealer in ivory, displayed confidence in his selection of three athletes from the American League. According to his present plans, Howley will use Harry Heilmann, former Detroit slugger, and Bob Meusel, former running mate of Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig with the Yankees, in the Reds' outfield. Dan also elected to pick off Leo Durocher, former Yankee infielder. Even if Leo doesn't carry over regularly for Howley, he'll be mighty handy in case of emergency.

Old Pete Goes Home

GROVER CLEVELAND ALEXANDER again will be in the uniform of the Phillies, the team the old boy was with in the early stages of a remarkable career. Connie Mack, in retrieving his old catcher, Wally Schang, from the Browns, evidently had in mind a nice comfortable home for the old receiver, who in return for the kindness, could coach the young pitchers and do bull pen duty, leaving the actual catching to the more agile Cochran. The once colorful Cuban, Adolfo Luque, is with Brooklyn this year, but probably will be seen mainly in relief roles.

In search of a third baseman, the Chicago Cubs concluded that Lester Bell of Boston could fill the bill. While they might have liked Pie Traynor, Fred Lindstrom or Pinkie Whitney in preference to the Boston boy, Bell was purchased at a reasonable price. The Pirates, Giants or Phillies would not have parted with their star infielders for less than Mr. Wrigley's entire bankroll, inasmuch as each had hopes

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

For perhaps the first time in his career, Paulino Uzcudun finds himself with only one manager. . . . Billy Gibson, the sole pilot, plans a "country-wide" tour with his woodchopper. . . . Uncle Wilbert, the Round Robin, has a unique arrangement to develop control in his pitchers. . . . Two canvas bags, 25 inches in circumference and four feet long and each filled with sawdust, hang from the top of the batting cage. . . . A thrown strike goes between the bags, separated a distance equal to the width of home plate. . . . Balls that hit the sacks say wear and tear on the ribs, Round Robin says.

of dethroning the Bruins from the peak of the National League.

Rumors Faded—Then Died

FOR a time indications were that some real nifty transactions would be brought to light, but they soon faded and died out completely. It looked as if Walte Hoyt, Yankee star, might become a member of some other American League mound staff, while rumors circulated to the effect that Goose Goslin of Washington and Fat Fothergill of Detroit, both great batsmen, would find occupation in other outfields. As soon as it became definitely established that Darryl Vance had to submit to a cut in salary, rumors flew thick and fast that the Robins' speedball artist would figure in a big deal, possibly with the Cubs. A misunderstanding between Burleigh Grimes and Jewel Ems late last season gave rise to the belief that the Pirate star would go to another club. In the case of Grimes, too, the Chicago team was mentioned prominently. But no excitement came. Vance submitted to the salary cut. So far as we know, Grimes and Ems have never come to a full understanding. Anyhow Burleigh continues to hold out.

University Coach Displeased With Poor Showing of Track Men, Report

FAETTEVILLE, March 24.—"Unless better performances are shown by candidates in the various track and field events, I will not take anyone to the Texas and Dallas relays," Fred Thomson, University of Arkansas track coach, said Friday. The Texas relays are to be held March 28 and the Dallas relays March 29.

Coach Thomson gives as his reasons for this statement weather conditions, lack of preparation and the poor showing of his men. He says if he takes anyone it will probably be a relay team and Milan Creighton, this year's captain and weight man.

The University track team is weak in the high and broad jumps and high and low hurdles. Wear Schoonover, who formerly went out for baseball instead of track, is training for the broad jumping event, but he will have to show development in future practice to be able to place in the meets. Clarence Geis, also a former basketball player, is gradually rounding into the shape that won points for him in

In addition he may have more games than he starts for he has lost none of the control that has always been among his foremost assets.

"As far back as I can remember, I was always throwing things said Alexander. "As a kid, I never went by anything that way lying around loose, whether it was a stone or a cornob without picking it up and aiming it at something or somebody. So I guess the arm was made for throwing and I cannot quit.

A WISE MOTOR CAR INVESTMENT

Consider a few of the basic facts that make the new Chevrolet Six such a thoroughly sound investment.

It offers a great six-cylinder valve-in-head engine, with its capacity increased to 50 horsepower . . . assuring the smooth, quiet, resilient performance which is so essential in a modern automobile.

It offers the all-weather braking efficiency of internal-expanding, completely enclosed, 4-wheel brakes—big, powerful, quiet and extremely easy to apply.

It offers the modern riding comfort of four long semi-elliptic, chrome-vanadium steel springs—under the cushioned control of Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers.

It offers the greater beauty, comfort and safety of bodies by Fisher—built of selected hardwood and steel . . . providing thousands upon thousands of miles of quiet, care-free service.

It offers scores of individual features that contribute to the pleasure and convenience of present-day motoring—

—a new Fisher VV non-glare windshield; foot-controlled, twin-beam headlamps; adjustable driver's seat in all closed models; dash gasoline gauge; and safety gasoline tank, located in the rear of the car.

With all these important advancements—coupled with greatly reduced prices for the entire Chevrolet line—it is only logical that thousands are saying every day—"The New Chevrolet Six is a wise motor car investment!"

AUTHOR OF "THE AVENGING PARROT" "THE BLACK PIGEON," ETC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
IS MATTHEWS. Today's murder Friday night in a house on the Berkeley street, given to Mrs. HICKLEY by REV. CROSBY, engaged to CLARA HICKLEY. The body, slumped and tied with a scarf, is taken from the house this morning by DET. DUNDEE, who has been in the room since the murder. Mrs. HICKLEY, who has been in the room since the murder, is taken from the house this morning by DET. DUNDEE, who has been in the room since the murder.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXIV
WHOW! I thought those reporters would tear my uniform off me! Captain Strawn grunted disgustedly, as he let himself into the library, where Dundee and Arnold, the chauffeur, were awaiting him. "Seemed to think I could pull a murderer out of my sleeve, like a magician's rabbit. I told 'em just enough to keep 'em from blackjacking me, and they're hot-footing it for their city rooms now. . . . Well, what have you got on your chest, Arnold? You've been giving a lot of trouble, my boys tell me."

The red-headed young chauffeur, who had been a huddled heap of misery, sprang from his chair and turned wild, tear-red eyes on the chief of the homicide squad.

"Why didn't you tell me my poor girl was dead—murdered?" he demanded hoarsely. "God knows I had a right to be told first, not kept stewing in agony in that damned sitting room backstairs, wondering what had happened, believing terrible things against her!"

"Well, you know now!" Strawn jerked him up roughly. "What have you got to tell us?"

"That I saw her murderer, sneaking out of these grounds last night!" Arnold shouted, his whole body quivering.

"Wait—a minute!" Strawn ordered sternly. "How do you know he was her murderer? If it was a he—"

"It was a man, all right! Or a beast wearing trousers!" Arnold interrupted violently.

"Keep your shirt on! . . . Now begin at the beginning and tell exactly what you know."

"I had a date to meet Doris at the summerhouse last night," Arnold began fervently.

"WHEN was this date made?" Dundee interrupted the chauffeur and his own rapid notes.

"While we—all the servants, I mean—were eating our dinner in our own sitting room," Arnold explained impatiently. "Our dinner is from six to half-past, an hour before the family dines."

"Then all of the servants heard you make the date?"

When did you get back?"

"I didn't drive them to Westview," Arnold corrected him. When we were passing the Riverside Country Club Mrs. Smith recognized a car that was turning into the club, and hailed it. The folks in the car urged her and Mr. Smith to join them for an hour's dancing, saying they'd drive them home afterwards. So I let them out—"

"The Riverside Country Club?"

Strawn repeated, startled, his eyes suddenly narrowing to slits. "That's only about eight miles from here, isn't it? If I'd known this, young man, you'd have been on the carpet long ago!"

"But I didn't come straight home, see?" Arnold retorted angrily. "I drove out the Hamilton Pike to Sheridan road, parked the car and sat there for half an hour or more."

"Expect me to swallow that?" Strawn grinned. "Twiddling your thumbs and dreaming about getting married, eh?"

"Dreaming about getting married, yes! But instead of twiddling my thumbs I was counting cars, and here's the proof!" The hot-tempered young man drew two soiled envelopes from a breast pocket of his uniform and passed them to the detective. "I made a mark for every car that passed that corner, and if you'll count the lines, you'll see that the total is 146. I've been planning to lease the southeast corner of those two cross-roads, and put up a filling station with my savings. I'd checked passing cars on a Sunday afternoon and on a week day around six o'clock, but I still wasn't satisfied, and wanted to see how heavy night traffic was, before I ventured my money."

"Big and tall—ran like an athlete, eh?" Strawn repeated.

"Sure! They all knew we were engaged."

"Did she have a key?"

"Yes, because Wickett lent her his. Ordinarily, when any of the servants are out after Wickett has gone to bed, they have to ring the back door bell, which connects with his room. But he—he trusted Doris, and gave her his key."

Strawn and Dundee exchanged glances. No key had been found on the girl's body or in the pocket of her apron.

"All right. Get along with your story," Strawn ordered.

"Well, I'd been told that I wouldn't be needed during the evening, but at about a quarter to 11 the phone in my room rang. It was an extension of the house phone. It was Wickett, saying that the Benjamini Smiths wanted me to drive them home to Westview. I was pretty sore—they're always mooching our car, to save gasoline—and when Wickett told me that he'd heard Dick Berkeley bully Doris into saying she'd meet him—well, I was ready to throw up my job right then, but I thought I'd better stick around as long as Doris was here, to protect her." And he dropped his head on his arm and sobbed.

"I took time to write Doris a note, when I couldn't reach her on the house phone. I begged her, if she loved me, not to leave the house last night."

"And you gave the note to Wickett, to give to Doris?"

"Yes. When I brought the car around for him to announce, he said Doris had gone up to her room to write to her sister in England. He said he'd give it to her, but she never got it! If she had—Oh, my God!"

"ANYBODY to corroborate this neat little alibi?" Strawn asked.

"I suppose my car was noticed by at least a hundred people, but I don't know who any of them were."

"And what time do you say you got back here, after using your employer's car on private business?"

"About five minutes after 12. I remember looking at the clock on the dashboard when I was held up by a passing freight train just outside of Hamilton. It was 12 straight-up then, and it took me no more than five minutes to reach the gates of Hillcrest. It was when I was turning into our own driveway that I saw the man."

"What did he look like? What was he doing?" Strawn demanded.

"I didn't get a good look at him," Arnold admitted. "When I saw my car in between the gates he was running away from them up the road. My headlights were on him just a second, and I only saw his back, but he ran like an athlete. I'm telling you! I thought at the time he was hurrying to catch the interurban trolley, which had just whistled at the stop about six blocks away from Hillcrest."

"Big and tall—ran like an athlete, eh?" Strawn repeated thoughtfully. He reached for the telephone on the library desk and called police headquarters.

"Round up John Maxwell, Sergeant Turner," he ordered crisply. "Yeah. That Maxwell. He got into town yesterday. . . . Yeah. Maybe. . . . Not yet. . . . Sure! I'll be in at noon." He hung up the receiver, and turned again to the chauffeur.

"Now Arnold, come clean!" he snapped. "Why did you kill the girl and let Dick Berkeley get off scot-free?"

OPPORTUNITY

They do the wrong who say I come no more
When once I knock and fail to find you in
For every day I stand outside your door
And bid you wake, and rise to fight
(And win)
Will not for precious chances passed
Weep not for golden ages on the
Each night I burn the records of the
At sunrise every soul is born again
Laugh like a boy at splendors that
Have sped
To vanished joys be blind and deaf
And dumb
My judgments seal the dead past
With its dead
But never bind a moment yet to Come
The deep in mire, wring not your Hands and weep
I lend my arm to all who say "I can"
No shame-faced outcast ever sank
So deep
But yet might rise and be again a man—Selected.

Grant Withers Stars in "Hearts in Exile"

Now that Grant Withers has registered such a phenomenal success in Warner Brothers Vitaphone productions, screen fans as well as stars are selecting him as the most likely candidate for the type of roles made popular by Wallace Reid.

Grant is a strapping young giant six feet three inches tall, and is not unlike Reid in appearance. He also has that same likable quality and ready smile which so endeared the late idol to the hearts of theatre-goers.

The latest appearance of young Withers is opposite Dolores Costello, in the leading male role of "Hearts in Exile," a Warner Bros. all-talking Vitaphone production, which will be seen at the Saenger theatre today. This lavishly produced picture tells a stirring story of a romantic love triangle amid the snows of Siberia, and is adding still further to the swiftly mounting popularity of Withers.

Other players appearing prominently in Miss Costello's support are James Kirkwood, George Fawcett, David Torrence, Olive Tell, Rose Dione, Lee Morgan and Tom Dugan. Michael Curtiz directed, and the scenario was adapted by Harvey Gates from the play by John Oxenham.

New Song Written for "The Climax"

A captivating new ballad, "You My Melody of Love," was written by Victor Schertzinger, composer of the popular "Marcheta," as the highly-essential theme song of "The Climax," Universal's all-dialogue picture production of Edward Locke's famous stage play, which will open today at the New Grand theatre for a two day run.

In few pictures has the theme song been so vitally important as in "The Climax" where the song is an integral part of the plot. The story revolves about the ambition of a young Italian girl to achieve fame as a singer.

In the stage production of "The Climax," internationally famous as a song featured song was "The Song of the Soul" by Joseph Carl Briel which was extremely popular in its time. "You My Melody of Love" is entirely new.

572 More Eggs

From Panamin hens. That's the story at the finish of a 100 day egg laying contest.

Two flocks, 100 hens each, same feed, same care—except one flock had Panamin added to their rations.

The Panamin hens laid 5882 eggs eggs. The non-Panamin 5310, a difference of 572 eggs.

Ouachita Is Given Land Near College

Prescott Man Donates Plot to School for New Building

ARKADELPHIA, Ark., March 24.—Dr. W. A. Forbes, of Prescott, one of the founders of Ouachita College and now past 80 years of age, has deeded nearly a quarter of a block of land just across the street south of the campus to Ouachita College and has given permission for the college to move the two story frame building known as the Mary Forbes Industrial Home to some other part of the campus.

The home for many years was used by girls with scant finance who operated it on a co-operative basis. It was named in memory of the late Mary Forbes, daughter of Dr. Forbes. Dr. Forbes has retained the building specifying that the rental shall be a fund to be loaned to girls of limited finances, or if the college at any time wishes to buy the building, the money shall be a fund, the interest of which will be loaned to such girls.

The quarter of a block of land, among the most valuable pieces of property in Arkadelphia, probably will be the site of the proposed conservatory of music and auditorium, contemplates erecting in the near future at a cost of $200,000. Situated there, the auditorium would be easily accessible to the people of the city as well as the students of Ouachita.

Elks Lodge Have Meeting Tonight

The regular meeting of Hope Lodge B. P. O. Elks No. 1109 will be held at 8 o'clock. Every member is urged to attend. Several new applications are on file and more are expected. The Elks will give a dance on March 28th, and have secured a return date on the famous negro orchestra, from Shreveport, La., playing under the name of The DeLuxe Night Hawks. The boys sure know their stuff and have promised to arrive on time.

The dance will be given for the benefit of the Elks Building Fund, and the bid will be $2.50 for gentlemen and ladies free.

Indications point to a large attendance from surrounding towns as well as from Hope, as the 28th is the week end of the Spring holidays of the colleges and many will be at the Elks dance.

The Exalted Ruler will appoint a committee of ladies to have charge of decorating and making more home like the Elks Home. Quite a number of bridge parties are scheduled to take place at the Elks' Home in the near future.
